Nazis Mass Reinforcement At Leningrad; Fighting Rages In Poltava Regions

London, Oct. 3.

WHILE the Germans are reported to be massing reinforcements in the region of Leningrad, bloody fighting is apparently raging east of the Dnieper, where the Germans are trying to push into the rich industries of the Donetz basin after capturing Poltava several days ago.

The latest Soviet communique repeats the usual statement that during the night of October 2 Soviet troops continued fighting along the entire front, but a supplement describes heavy fighting in one sector of the Ukraine which lasted for two days. More than 2,700 Germans were killed and large numbers were captured, together with much war equipment.

The area of this operation is not specified, but the battle may have been fought east of Poltava, from where the Germans are said to be making a heavy assault against Kharkov and Donetz basin. The Germans claim they are within 70 miles of Kharkov, but there is nothing to suggest that they have yet succeeded in crossing the Vorskla river.

There is no further news of the German advance towards the Crimea, and the whole situation in the Ukraine remains critical.

Heavy German Losses

Another supplement to the Soviet communique states: "The Germans lost 1,500 killed and several thousand wounded in the north-west sector of the front, where our troops inflicted heavy blows on two German infantry regiments. Our troops also inflicted heavy losses on the enemy in the western sector of the front. Three thousand men were killed and wounded, 32 tanks destroyed on roads between Vitebsk and Smolensk and between Minsk and Smolensk. Seventeen transport columns were destroyed and one S. S. battalion routed."

The present position in the centre also remains obscure, and there are no further official reports of Marshal Semyon Konstantinovitch Timoshenko's counter-offensive. Unofficial messages, however, say that the Russian attacks continue in several areas.

In the Leningrad area, the Germans are stated to be bringing up fresh troops, but the Russians are increasingly active and confident.

R.A.F. Wing in Russia Praised

Meanwhile, some details about the activities of the R.A.F. wing in Russia have reached London. Russian pilots, it is stated, are full of praise for the British fighters and their pilots, who have been drawn from all parts of the British Empire. The "Red Star," organ of the Red Army, points out that many of the British pilots fought in France last year, and that all of them have seen fighting over Britain.

The British airmen, for their part, give high praise to the Russian bombers for their long-distance fights over German territory, and particularly to Russian dive-bombers which they describe as better than anything of their kind for speed and manœuvrability.—Reuter.

Soviets Stage Big Counter-Attack Near Lake Ilmen

Moscow, Oct. 3.

Russian forces have recaptured four villages and a hill of great tactical importance in a big counter-attack in the Staraya Russia area near Lake Ilmen, 125 miles to the south of Leningrad, according to a special despatch to the newspaper "Izvestia" quoted by Moscow Radio.

The paper "Konsomolskaya Pravda" says that fierce and stubborn fighting is continuing on the Dnieper. The paper adds that the Germans are making numerous attempts to cross to the left bank of the river. In defeating these attempts the Russians are inflicting very heavy losses on the enemy.

Ukraine Causing Concern

The part of the eastern front causing more concern than any other is the Ukraine, where the Germans are now striving to strike at the Kharkov industrial area, thus attempting to affect Russian production of supplies while simultaneously attempting to invade the Crimea, says Reuter's special correspondent in Moscow.

This is a military, naval and also a political objective rather than an industrial one though mines and industries at the east end of the Crimea are of considerable importance and loss of the Crimea would also adversely affect Russian civil moral, for example, by the loss of one of the main sources of tobacco supplies.

Perekop Isthmus Key to Crimea

The Crimea's defence is largely dependent on the Perekop Isthmus down which the Germans claim to have penetrated half way, though this is not admitted by the Russians.

Dive bombers are likely to be extensively used by the Germans in the Crimean operations while the Russians are able to depend on powerful support of the Black Sea fleet in the defence of Perekop.

Extremely violent fighting has been going on round Poltava, rail centre in the southern Ukraine, which was evacuated by the Russians two days ago. In spite of relatively easy terrain the Germans are making but slow progress in their drive towards Kharkov, great industrial and tank manufacturing city 85 miles to the northeast.

Loss of Poltava Not Important

The loss of Poltava, which has few industries, is not important except for sentimental reasons. Situated in the heart of the Ukraine this beautiful country was the home of the writer Gogol and was immortalised by Peter the Great's victory over the

New Axis Offensive In Russia Planned

London, Oct. 3.

Quoting usually well-informed Axis quarters, the "Exchange Telegraph's" Ankara correspondent today said that the Germans had completed preparations for a new offensive on the Russian front and that it would start within 48 hours. The scene of such an offensive, however, was not mentioned.—United Press.

R.A.F. Bombs Brest, Nazi Air Bases

London, Oct. 3.

Royal Air Force planes last night attacked docks at Brest where German warships are still based, the Air Ministry revealed today.

British craft alsa attacked aerodromes in German-occupied France and Holland from which attackers come over to England and the Coastal Command's bombers raided docks and shipyards at St. Nazaire, the Air Ministry added.

Strong formations of Royal Air Force fighters blasted across the Channel yesterday, and succeeded in destroying six Luftwaffe fighters at a cost of three British planes, the Air Ministry stated last night.

The British set fire to a German barge off Dunkirk and also bombed two motor vessels off the Norwegian coast.

Large formations of British planes were seen flying across the Channel in late afternoon according to despatches from Folkestone.—United Press.

More Smashing Raids On Tripoli

Cairo, Oct. 3.

Further smashing raids by heavy bombers of the R.A.F. on Tripoli are reported in the latest R.A.F Middle East communique. Large fires were started in various parts of the port. Raids on Benghazi are also reported in the communique. An aerodrome at Cosimo was successfully bombed, and two air-craft on the ground destroyed.

"A successful raid by heavy bombers of the Royal Air Force was made on Tripoli on the night of September 30/Oct. 1. Motor transport concentrations in a depot were bombed, and, as a result, large fires were started. Searchlights, buildings, personnel and another motor transport park containing several hundreds of vehicles were machine-gunned in a low level attack," says the communique.

Benghazi Bombed

"On the same night shipping in the harbour of Benghazi was raided and buildings in Barce bombed. Detailed results could not be observed, but most of the bombs fell on the target.

"Motor transport on the road between Benghazi, Tocra and Parce was machine-gunned. The aerodrome at Gambut was also attacked. In a raid on Cosimo aerodrome on September 28, not previously reported, two enemy aircraft were successfully destroyed on the ground, and a number of others severely damaged.

"From all these operations four of our aircraft are missing."—Reuter.

Daylight Operations Described

London, Oct. 3.

Daylight activities of the R.A.F. were described in the following Air Ministry communique last night: "Fighter aircraft on patrol this morning attacked and set afire an enemy vessel off Dunkirk. This afternoon a Beaufort of the coastal command bombed two motor vessels off the coast of Norway. Strong formations of our fighters carried out offensive operations over the Channel and northern France. In a number of combats six enemy fighters were destroyed. Three of our fighters are missing."—Reuter.

German Bombers Shot Down

London, Oct. 3.

Authoritative sources this morning said that three German bombers were shot down last night as the Luftwaffe staged its most widespread attacks on Britain in over three months.

Early reports indicated there were many casualties in one north-east England coastal town, where two bombers were shot down. The other bomber was shot down in the Firth of Forth area.

Still other bombers were reported to have flown over the Straits of Dover, showing the widespread scope of Luftwaffe activities.

Luftwaffe Losing Sting

In a south-east coast town where a block of flats was blasted with direct hits it was feared there might be a number of casualties. However, there were indications that at no point was Reichs Marshal Hermann Goering directing his Luftwaffe blows with the force and weight with which the Germans slugged Britain last year. Most raiders appeared to be flying singly or in small groups.

The Germans appeared to be developing their attack on a south-east coast town, when they returned for the third time to heavily hit areas.

Heavy Loss of Life Feared

Immense orange flashes were seen for miles as the bombs burst, after which each raider was forced to run a gauntlet of heavy fire from the ground, said reports from the area.

From the almost equal interval of time between the three raids it was indicated the attackers consisted of the same squadron. It was believed the planes dropped their bombs, returned to a base on the continent and loaded up then returned for another attack.

It was feared the loss of life was most heavy during the second and third attacks.—United Press.

Enemy Ships Attacked By Hurricanes

London, Oct. 3.

An enemy supply ship escorted by seven flak ships (anti-aircraft ships) was attacked by Hurricanes off Graveslines today, it is learned in London. One of the flak ships was sunk, the supply ship and three other flak ships set on fire, and the remaining three badly damaged.—Reuter.

Prominent Czechs Executed In Nazi Terrorist Drive

Berlin, Oct. 3.

THE Mayor of Prague was sentenced to death yesterday, while 18 Czechs, most of them prominent personages and high-ranking officers in the Czech Army, were executed Wednesday, Germans despatches from Prague said today.

Seventy-five others were sentenced by courts martial to be handed over to the state police, while three were acquitted, the Prague despatches reported.

Dr. Ottokar Klapka, former mayor of Prague, a deputy in the Czech Parliament and member of the People's Socialist Party before the German occupation of Czechoslovakia, was found guilty of preparing to commit acts of high treason and having aided and abetted the enemy.

German despatches from Prague alleged that among those executed on Wednesday were leading officials of the Czech undercover organization resisting the Germans in Bohemia and Moravia.

Members of a Czech hiking organization who had been gathering arms to use during an uprising, members of an underground party plotting high treason and members of a gang of criminals who for years had terrorized the population also were executed on Wednesday, the Nazi despatches from Prague said.

The newspaper printed official D.N.B. despatches from Prague stating that among those executed were: Joseph Benes, Director of the Agricultural Association at Raudnitz; Anton Kvarda, Director of the Trades School at Rakonitz; Dr. Karl Treybal, Presiding Judge of the Welwarn District Court; Joseph Smrkovsky, well-known Prague business man.

Karl Elsnic, Prague editor; Franz Krizek, editor at Tochlovic; Joseph Pokorny, of Prague.

The following retired army officers also were executed: Brigadier-generals Mikulas Domazal, Oleg Swatex and Wenzel Sara; Colonels Joseph Maly, Franz Pohunek and Joseph Dvorka; Lieutenant-colonels Franz Dedip and Franz Ambros; Major Johnn Petera; Captain Otmar Ruzek and Lieutenant Wenzel Svoboda.—United Press.

More Than 1,000 People Executed

London, Oct. 3.

The new Nazi terrorist drive to put down resistance in the occupied countries is leading instead to even more widespread disorder and sabotage.

According to Berlin, more than 1,000 people, many of them innocent hostages, have been executed since the Russian campaign began. The actual number is probably far greater.

In Czechoslovakia, Nazi firing squads yesterday killed 15 more people at the order of the acting "Protector" of Bohemia and Moravia, S.S. Group-Leader. Reinhard Heydrich, "the Hangman of Europe." The charges were high treason and possession of arms. One hundred and ten Czechs were handed over to the Gestapo, and several Jews were hanged in France, while 35 more so-called Communists have been seized in the Amiens district. Twenty-six other arrests are expected.

Shot Without Trial

London, Oct. 3.

Belgians Set Fire To Grain Barns

Berlin, Oct. 3.

General Ludwig von Falken-hausen, commander of the German occupation troops in Belgium, warned today that he would execute hostages if acts of sabotage continue, the "Brusseler Zeitung" reported today.

He issued a decree which revealed that "irresponsible elements in the district under my command have under the cover of darkness set on fire a large number of grain barns and trucks.

"Their criminal acts are of a kind which may seriously endanger the food supplies of the population.

"Inhabitants of this country will be acting in their own interests if they co-operate to the best of their abilities in the prevention or clearing up of such crimes.

"Should such acts of sabotage be repeated without the perpetrators being discovered immediately, the population must be prepared to pay for it and the lives of hostages will be at the disposal of the occupying forces for delinquencies of this type also."—United Press.

Chinese Aircraft Bomb Ichang

Chinese Claim More Successes In Hunan

Chungking, Oct. 3.

The Mi River was strewn with Japanese dead, destroyed tanks and drowned horses after strong Chinese forces in the Japanese rear intercepted their columns as they attempted to cross the river yesterday in their retreat northward to their base. Chinese reports claim.

Field despatches claim that the Chinese forces are encircling the Japanese and are continuing what they call "annihilation" operations.

Gen. Hsueh Yo, Commander-in-Chief of the Chinese forces on the Hunan front, has received many congratulatory telegrams from public bodies all over the country.—Reuter.

Japanese Claim Success

Hunan Front, Oct. 3.

On their way back to their original bases after voluntarily giving up Changsha, five Japanese detachments yesterday crushed remnants of the Chungking 98th division on the east bank of the Siang river, front line reports reaching here today revealed.

Field despatches disclosed that the Chungking forces were suddenly trapped by a three-pronged Japanese attack at Hsianingkang, approximately 18 kilometres northwest of Changsha. As the Chinese forces are unable to escape, it was believed that they would be annihilated.—Domei.

Japanese Near Chengchow

New Yellow River, Oct. 3.

Smashing into Chungmow, on the Lunghai railway between Chengchow and Kaifeng, the spearhead of the Japanese attack on Chengchow was only 10 kilometres from that important railway junction, frontline reports reaching here today revealed.

Chungmow, despatches revealed, was entered at 5.30 o'clock this morning and completely occupied an hour and a half later. Other Japanese columns were reported to have smashed through Chungking defensive positions along the Kulu river to occupy the town of Tunghwahutung, on the west bank of the Kulu.

Meanwhile, in co-operation with ground forces, Japanese air units at dawn this morning, pounded Chungking troops strongly entrenched along the upper reaches of the Kulu.—Domei.

Chinese Army "Annihilated"

In one of the most convincing victories scored by the Japanese Army since the commencement of the Sino-Japanese hostilities more than four years ago, Japanese units smashed into Yungtze, strategic Chungking outpost north of Chengchow, annihilating the Chungking 98th Army, Lieut.-Col. Kunio Akiyama, Japanese Army spokesman, announced during yesterday afternoon's regular press conference.

Five thousand prisoners, representing the bulk of the 98th Army, were taken prisoner, while 2,000 were killed during the one day it took the Japanese troops to drive from their bases to Yungtze, the spokesman declared. Among the dead was reported the Commander-in-Chief of the 98th Army, General Wu Shih-min.

Only a few enemy forces remain to contest the Japanese advance on Chengchow, strategic junction point on the Lunghai and the Peiping-Hankow Railways, and unless the Chungking High Command quickly despatches sufficient reinforcements, the city will fall with ease, the spokesman said.

Threat to Loyang

Commenting on the annihilation of the 98th Army, Colonel Akiyama declared that this army was the same that faced the Japanese in southern Shansi earlier this year. At that time the army was 25,000 strong, but during the Shansi campaign, its strength was reduced to a mere 7,000.

Capture of Chengchow, the spokesman pointed out, will mean a threat to Loyang and Sian, both directly west. Questioned regarding the presence of other Chungking units in the vicinity of the junction city, the spokesman declared there were "some" enemy troops west of Chengchow.

During the conference, the spokesman flatly denied Chungking reports alleging the Japanese forces used parachute troops during the Changsha campaign.

"There was no need for the Japanese to use parachute troops.

Italian Garrison At Wolchefit Accorded Honours Of War After Gallant Defence

London, Oct. 3.

Reports from Nairobi regarding the surrender of the Italian garrison at Wolchefit holding a key position 50 miles north-east of Gondar show that the garrison numbered 71 Italian officers, 1560 Italian troops and 1,300 African troops, and was about a quarter of the total of Italian forces defending Gondar and the neighbourhood.

They held what appeared to be impregnable positions on the great rampartlike mountain tops of Wolchefit, which rise 5,000 feet above sea level.

Enemy Defences Raided

Imperial patrols had been raiding enemy defences for a period of several months, while patriot forces, led by British officers, operating to the south near Debat, were able to cut off the garrison's communication with Gondar.

The only means of revictualling the garrison had been by air, but this had been stopped by the presence recently of British planes.

The Italians had only sufficient food to last them until the end of September. When they surrendered they were accorded the honours of war after their gallant defence.

British Move to Strong Positions

British troops in the Middle East have now moved up to strong positions in the western desert. An official New Zealand war correspondent says that more strongholds are being prepared and that the approach to the Nile valley is being made a harder nut than ever to crack.

He says that fast fighters and bombers, many of them American, fly overhead continually.—Reuter.

Brooke-Popham Flies To Manila; To Confer On China, Burma Road

Manila, Oct. 3.

AIR Marshal Sir Robert Brooke-Popham, Commander-in-Chief of British Far Eastern forces, arrived here today from Singapore by plane for a three-day stay during which he will confer with the leading United States military and naval officials here regarding China and the Burma Road.

Sir Robert told the United Press that he planned to exchange information with Lieutenant-General Douglas MacArthur, Commander-in-Chief of United States Far Eastern Army forces, Brigadier-General John Magruder, head of the United States military mission to China, and Admiral Thomas Hart, Commander-in-Chief of the United States Asiatic Fleet.

He said that he would confer with them mainly on subjects relating to China and the Burma Road.

The highest British military authority in the Far East attributed the present lull in the Far East to the fact that Japan was being worried, not knowing what to do.

He said that the Japanese were wondering if they had not backed the wrong horse. They had put themselves in an extremely bad position and now were wondering how to get out.

Sir Robert said that Japan, and Germany, too, had under-estimated the strength of Russia. He also said that Japan had been badly let down by the Axis.

He said that he believed the Japanese would be correct in assuming that one of the objectives of his conferences here would be greater co-ordination between Britain and the United States in relation to China.

Let Down by Axis

Sir Robert said that Singapore's defences had been considerably improved since his last visit to Manila in April. He added that Singapore had been long prepared to meet a possible attack and was getting stronger daily.

He believed that the greatest concern in the Far East was over a possible move by the Japanese "mad-dog party" (young militarists).

The British Air Marshal said that he believed that the purpose of the Japanese drive in Hunan was to gain control of the remainder of the Hankow-Canton Railway, but he declined to comment on the success of the Japanese campaign, explaining that it was too early to draw any conclusion, especially since reports were conflicting.

He said that he also expected to see the United States High Commissioner to the Philippines, Mr. Francis B. Sayre, and President Manuel Quezon.

Sir Robert will leave by plane for Singapore on Monday. He does not intend to visit Hongkong at present.

To See High Commissioner

He said that he had not seen Gen. MacArthur since the formation of the United States Army's Far Eastern forces, and he also wanted to confer with Gen. Magruder, so he decided to "kill two birds with one stone or rather two generals with one aeroplane."—United Press.

Fadden Resigns After Vote of Censure

Canberra, Oct. 3.

Mr. Arthur W. Fadden, who succeeded Mr. Robert G. Menzies on August 29 as Prime Minister, resigned today because of the Labour Party's vote of censure during a budget debate.

The Governor-General, Lord Gowrie, it was believed, would summon Mr. John Curtin, leader of the Labour Party, which caused Mr. Fadden's fall, to form a new Government tonight. Mr. Curtin, it was announced later, had agreed to form a new cabinet.

Parliament adjourned after the Labour Party forced an adverse vote to be returned against Mr. Fadden.

The motion of censure was proposed by the Labour Party which attacked proposed levies on low incomes and delay in granting an increase of only one shilling in soldiers' pay.

Labour Party Amendment

The Labour Party amendment to the budget, which acted as the motion of censure, said that the Labour Party was "opposed to unjust method prescribed by the budget which are contrary to true equality and sacrifice."

Mr. Curtin, following Mr. Fadden's resignation, issued a statement which said that the "Labour Party will carry on the war wholeheartedly. The war involves the interests of labour more than any other class.

"I will ask the opposition to join the War Council."—United Press.

Defeated by 3 Votes

Canberra, Oct. 3.

The Australian Government was defeated today by a majority of three votes on a motion which the Prime Minister, Mr. A. W. Fadden, previously stated he would accept as a vote of censure. Mr. Fadden has been Prime Minister only five weeks. The vote was 36 to 33.

The Government previously had a majority of one, but two members who hitherto supported the Government voted for the motion which was tabled by Mr. John Curtin, Labour leader, after a sensation had been caused in the House of Representatives by Mr. Fadden's statement in reply to a question that the Government had used certain funds for purposes connected with action against subversive elements within Australia.

On the following day the Attorney-General, Mr. Hughes, flatly denied allegations that Government funds had been used in an improper manner.

Earlier Motion Defeated

An earlier Labour motion virtually amounting to a vote of censure was defeated last week by one vote after a bitter debate.

The fate of the Government was sealed today when an Independent member, Mr. A. W. Coles, told Mr. Fadden he was voting against the Government unless the Prime Minister could assure him that another Independent, Mr. Wilson, who hitherto had held the balance of power in the House, would support the Government. Mr. Fadden was unable to give this assurance. Both Mr. Coles and Mr. Wilson voted for the motion of censure.

Today's vote was taken on a Labour motion to reduce the first item of the budget. Before the balloting the defeat of the Government was considered inevitable.—Reuter.

Chiang Kai-shek Assured Of British Support

Chungking, Oct. 3.

Mr. J. B. Priestley, British writer, has cabled to Gen. Chiang Kai-shek: "British people in all walks of life, being desperately concerned to win both war and peace, salute you and assure you of their full support and co-operation."

In replying the Generalissimo expressed his appreciation of their pledge of co-operation and also asserted his belief in final victory in the war against aggression and tyranny.—Reuter.

Hitler Announces Vast New Operations in Russia Begun

London, Oct. 3.

GERMANY has initiated a gigantic new operation on the Eastern Front calculated to inflict a decisive defeat on Russia, said Hitler, Fuhrer of Germany, speaking in Berlin tonight. He stated, inter alia, that German relations with Japan were continually improving, and reviewed in detail Nazi achievements in pre-war years, after claiming that Germany had never sought the present European war.

In May of this year, Hitler went on, there was not the slightest doubt that Soviet Russia would strike at Germany, and the decision he took then was one of the most difficult of his life.

He did not want this war, he repeated, and when the conflict first broke out he made overtures of peace to Britain and France, which were rejected by "that war-monger Churchill."

Hitler said that 2,500,000 Russian prisoners had been taken, and 22,000 guns and 18,000 tanks destroyed in fighting in the east.

The Nazi Propaganda Minister, Goebbels, introducing Hitler's radio speech, declared that the Fuhrer "has come for one day to the Reich capital to speak to us." Previously the radio announcer said that the ceremony was taking place "in a gaily decorated hall."

Goebbels affirmed that it was vain to attempt to split the German people or divert them from their chosen path or drive a wedge between them and Hitler.

Hitler's arrival in the hall was greeted by vociferous cheers and the playing of the Horst Wessel song.

Main Points

The following are the main points of Hitler's speech:

"I have not come to reply to one of those statesmen who have been wondering why I was silent, but to initiate winter help work.

"For forty-eight hours a gigantic operation has been in progress which will help to defeat the enemy in the East. I am speaking on behalf of those millions who are at present fighting.

"I did not will this struggle. It was not necessary for us to have this war. What we have achieved in peace would have sufficed. We never aimed at war, but one thing was certain—we would never have renounced German freedom."

After reviewing in detail his achievements, and those of the Nazi party, in peace-time, Hitler continued: "A particularly cordial friendship unites me to the leader of Fascist Italy.

"With Japan our relations are cordial. If England's friendship could not be gained by the steps I have taken, then it was clear that that friendship would never be secured. . . .

"I had to make a difficult decision, and sent my Minister to Moscow to try to reach an understanding. We kept our word. Not a single word about Bolshevism appeared in our press. Russia tried to obtain bases on the Dardanelles, although this was denied by Molotov. We watched Russia carefully, and in May saw that there was not the slightest doubt that Russia would strike.

"I remained silent until I had decided to take the first step myself. It was the most difficult decision of my life. The greatest struggle in the history of the world began, and from then to now everything has gone according to plan."—Reuter.

N.E.I. Products Shipped to Russia; Soviet Ships Loaded

Batavia, Oct. 3.

THE promise by M. Gerbrandy, the Netherlands Premier, on August 5 that "although the Netherlands have no relations with Soviet Russia, products of the Netherlands Empire are at the disposal of the Soviets," has been kept, as it is learnt that N. E. I. products have already been shipped to Russia.

During recent weeks several Russian ships have called at Sourabaya to load cargoes of rubber, oil and coffee for Vladivostock, one of these ships was commanded by a woman.

The fact that supplies have not yet reached a large scale is not due to the N.E.I. as, immediately after the German invasion of Russia, N.E.I. exporters applied to the Soviet authorities in the hope of obtaining large orders, but were disappointed.

There is no direct contact between Batavia and Moscow, and all business has to be done via London, where, equally no important orders have been received, as might have been expected. N.E.I. exporters are still hoping that orders will be received soon.

Soviets Must Supply Ships

It is pointed out that in the present circumstances no N.E.I. ships can sail on the Batavia-Vladivostock run, so that the Soviets themselves must provide ships for any trade which is carried on.

It is further learnt here that Malaya has also exported rubber to the U.S.S.R. in the past month.

So far as former N.E.I.-Soviet trade relations are concerned, it is recalled that during the second half of 1938 Russia bought important quantities of rubber, tea and fibres. This trade was stopped after Soviet collaboration with Axis.

Outrage Against Japan

Reporting on the shipment of N.E.I. supplies to Russia, the "Japan Times and Advertiser," organ of the Japanese Foreign Office, declared that Japanese informed quarters believed that the N.E.I. were going to play a role in the execution of the programme of aid to Russia worked out at the three-power Moscow conference.

It added: "The frequency with which acts of outrage against Japan have of late been committed by the N.E.I. combines to make these quarters think that they have reason to regard the attitude of the Dutch Far Eastern colony towards this country with grave concern."—Reuter.

Japanese Paper Warns N.E.I.

Tokyo, Oct. 3.

The "Kokumin" today warned the Netherlands East Indies against shipping petroleum and other supplies to Russia.

In connection with Batavia reports that Soviet vessels recently had entered Sourabaya and were loading large quantities of oil and other supplies, the newspaper asserted that Dutch authorities "who invented this pretext and that excuse in order to check petroleum exports to Japan have come to exporting aid to Russia openly. We wonder what their actual intentions are.

"It goes without saying that Japan, as the stabilizing force in Great East Asia, can not remain indifferent to such an unfaithful and hostile action being committed in the midst of the Greater East Co-Prosperity Sphere," said the "Kokumin."

Japan's Peaceful Policy

The "Kokumin" said that Japan's policy toward the Netherlands East Indies has been a peaceful one. However, "Japan's southward policy must enter a new stage, whether Japan likes it or not, in the event the Netherlands East Indies—powerless and without adequate armaments—continues her obstinate anti-Axis hostile actions, depending on the strength of Britain, the United States and other third countries.

"The attention of the Japanese nation is focussed on the strained situation of Japan's lifeline in the south, of which the Netherlands East Indies are part," said the newspaper.—United Press.

"Unfriendly Act"

Tokyo, Oct. 3.

Mr. Koh Ishii, Deputy Spokesman of the Information Board, declared during today's foreign press conference that the possible sale of Netherlands East Indies oil and other goods in large quantities to the Soviet Union would be interpreted by Japan as an unfriendly act.

The statement was made in connection with a report in the vernacular papers this morning that Japan was closely watching alleged Netherlands East Indies plans to supply large amounts of strategic materials to Soviet Russia.—Domei.

China Is Fighting For Our Victory Declares McNutt

New York, Oct. 3.

"China is fighting for our victory and China will win," Mr. Paul V. McNutt, Federal Social Security Administrator, yesterday declared.

Mr. McNutt's words were contained in a speech made to some 24,000 Chinese and Americans who assembled in a "China Calling" rally at Madison Square Garden. The rally was sponsored by the United China Relief organization.

Mr. Wendell Willkie, Republican chieftain, was master of ceremonies. Other speakers, whose words were carried over a nationwide radio hookup, included Dr. Hu Shih Chinese Ambassador to Washington; Mr. Walter Lippmann, well known newspaper columnist and Governor Charles Edison of New Jersey.

The rally launched a drive to raise US$5,000,000 for China.

Protection of U.S. Interests

Mr. McNutt reiterated, during his speech, that America must protect its interests in the Far East.

Mr. McNutt said that "in the Philippines, and since, I have watched the forging of China's strength on the anvil of war. Today China has 3,000,000 trained officers and men."

He paid tribute to China industry, adding "The Orient is no further than the tires on your motor car.....Let China fall and the open door will be closed forever.

"Let the Philippines be joined to Fascist Japan," Mr. McNutt continued, "and you have a barrier reef between us and the whole continent of Asia. Let Singapore fall and the Orient will become an outpost of totalitarian power. Then you will know how near China is and you will understand the Orient as your neighbour."

Mr. McNutt recalled the horrors he saw when Shanghai was bombed. He saw the results, he said, during a tour four years ago with Admiral Yarnell.

Double Threat Foreseen

Mr. Willkie told the assembled throng that "if the Chinese lost, the forces of totalitarianism will control the Orient and threaten our western shores just as Chancellor Hitler seeks to threaten our eastern shores."

Mr. Willkie introduced the speakers, who also included Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia, of New York.

Dr. Hu thanked participants in the rally and said that the China Relief during the past two months had raised CN$40,000,000. Denouncing Japan, Dr. Hu quoted the Chinese proverb "whomsoever a thousand fingers point to in condemnation shall die even without sickness."

"Even as I speak," Dr. Hu said, "my people in Chungking are firing a million fire crackers in celebration of the latest and greatest Chinese victory at Changsha."

Mr. Edison paid tribute to Chinese resistance saying "not even the fortitude of the British people in last autumn's frightful bombings matched the dogged courage of the Chinese people."

Independent China Necessary

Mr. Lippman referred to the coming double tenth anniversary and said "whereas we have just begun to send a little help to China it is now four years since the Chinese, by helping themselves have been helping us mightily. There can be no peace in the Pacific without an independent China to help maintain peace."

Mr. Lippman also stressed Singapore's strategic importance.

Preliminary ceremonies were featured by the nationally known entertainers Walter O'Keefe, Dinah Shore, Ken Murray, Lanny Ross, Jack Benny, Kate Smith and Eddie Cantor. A chorus of 1,000 Chinese sang "Chee Lai," a Chinese marching song. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Murray Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. LaMont, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller III, Mr. and Mrs. Marshal Field and Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Luce.—United Press.

Russia Offering Petrol to Turkey

London, Oct. 3.

The "Exchange Telegraph" reported from Ankara today that Russia had offered to sell petrol and oil products to Turkey but it could not be learned what Russia desires in return.

The offer was considered chiefly as a goodwill gesture to Turkey. Turkey formerly asked Russia for oil but Russia refused.—United Press.

British to Eat Better

London. Oct. 3.

American aid will see that Britons will eat better and have a wider choice of foods this winter than at any time since the early days of the war, it was officially announced last night.

"A very important extension of distribution of unrationed foodstuffs will be produced by mid-November which it is hoped will reduce not only difficulties of housewives but of canteens," it was stated.

Ration Increases

The announcement declared that Britain is "the only belligerent country in the third year of the war that increased its rations."

Beginning November 17, fat rations will be increased 25 per cent. from eight to ten ounces. The sugar ration will be increased 50 per cent., from eight to 12 ounces, and this will be continued until the March period when the strain on shipping will be the worst.—United Press.

A Chinese was sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment in the First Special District Court yesterday for stealing no less than 87 hydrant tops and covers in street corners in Shanghai. It was revealed by the prosecution that accused, after stealing the tops and covers, melted them and sold them in terms of weight in iron. He was arrested when he was trying to remove a hydrant top on September 27 in Tatung Road.

Among the synagogues destroyed were those in Rue dos Tournelles, Rue Montespan, Rue Copernic, Rue de Notre Dame do Nazareth and Rue de la Victoire.

At Byalistok, 15 Poles were shot and their bodies put on public show as a warning against sabotage. But this failed to check the repeated attempts to wreck German communications along the eastern front. A railway bridge was blown up and the track of a railway line dynamited.

Lined Up and Machine-Gunned

Berlin, Oct. 3.

The increasing wave of violence in German-occupied countries exclusive of Soviet Russia has resulted in nearly 1,000 reprisal executions since the German-Russian war began according to a compilation of official authorized reports today.

The report covered punishment of all forms of opposition including the all-inclusive "communist activity."

The chief centre of violence was Serbia where literally carloads of Communists, Jews and saboteurs were lined up and machine-gunned.

The Reich Protector's Press Office told the United Press that 18 were executed Thursday and 39 were executed Wednesday.

The office denied that Dr. Emil Hacha, President of the Protectorate of Bohemia and Moravia, had tried to resign. To the contrary, it was said. Dr. Hacha announced that he would continue his work to "deepen the Czech's attitude toward the Reich."—United Press.

Little Chance for Elias

Berne, Oct. 3.

"The death sentence meted out to Premier Alois Elias of the Protectorate of Bohemia and Moravia is a proof that the movement of opposition against the system of the protectorate has reached the highest Government spheres," the Berlin correspondent of the "Neue Zurcher Zeitung" reported to his paper today.

"The German press announced the sentence without comments," he added. "It is believed that M. Elias has little chance of escaping death by his appeal for clemency to the Fuhrer. Besides, sentences meted out by the tribunals in Bohemia and Moravia have all been carried out immediately. Many trials are under way. An investigation undertaken in Berlin has revealed that the sabotage of supplies is one of the most important weapons of the opposition in the Protectorate, which hoped thus to stir up discontent among the population."—Havas Telemondial.

Growing Unrest Reported

New York, Oct. 3.

Reports from European capitals yesterday indicated growing unrest in German-occupied countries, particularly in the Czech state, two-thirds of which was said to be under a state of siege.

The British Broadcasting Corporation reported that 130 executions had occurred in Bohemia and Moravia and more were expected.

Well informed sources in Berlin said that executions Wednesday in Prague and Brno totalled approximately 30 and three new districts of the Czech state had been placed under a state of emergency.

An official announcement in Berlin categorically denied that General Alois Elias, Premier of Bohemia and Moravia, who was sentenced to death on charges of plotting armed rebellion, had been executed. Time of the execution has not been announced.

Thousands in Hiding

Reports here from London said that information reaching Czechs there said many more arrests and executions were occurring in Czechoslovakia than so far had been revealed. The Gestapo, said reports, was hunting Czechs in the remotest villages. Thousands of people were said to have left their homes and were wandering in streets or hiding in hills and woods, hoping to evade the agents of Herr Reinhard Heydrich, Reich Protector of Bohemia and Moravia.

The number of suicides was said to be appalling.

More Executions

In Berlin the "Deutsche Zeitung" quoted a German language newspaper published in Holland as saying the German Military Commander announced four persons had been sentenced to death. Three were shot on charges of being ringleaders in a sabotage and espionage organization. The fourth was executed for the alleged shooting in the back of a rail employee in the service of occupation authorities.

Another person was reported to have been sentenced to death on charges of leading sabotage but his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment. A number of other saboteurs and spies were sentenced to long terms, said the despatch.

Uprising in Drama

From Rome came reports, carried in a "Resto del Carlino" despatch from Sofia that "a few dozen bandits" attempted to terrorize Drama, Greece, but were dispersed by Bulgarian army detachments which suffered "insignificant losses."

(Reports yesterday to Ankara said there had been an abortive uprising in Drama, which is near the Bulgarian frontier.)

The despatch said that police "for reasons of prudence" searched all private dwellings in Varna and arrested 543 persons, including 138 possessing forged or invalid identity cards. Seventy-eight other persons were arrested and charged with being illegally domiciled.—United Press.

More Czechs Sentenced To Death

London, Oct. 3.

Fifteen people were sentenced to death by a court-martial in Prague and Brno yesterday, according to a Prague Radio message.

In addition, three were sentenced to death by hanging. One hundred and ten more people were handed over to the Gestapo.

The names of some of the men are given as: Joseph Bernes, manager, Antonin Chvarda, headmaster of a technical school in Raknovik, Dr. Carel Treibal, chief official of the District Court in Velvaray, Josef Smirkovsky, wholesaler in Prague, and Vaclav Svoboda, a lieutenant in the former Czech army.—Reuter.

Elias Said Not Yet Shot

Stockholm, Oct. 3.

The "Allehanda's" Berlin correspondent denied a report that General Elias, Czechoslovak Prime Minister had already been executed, saying he was alive yesterday morning. It is believed that General Elias is appealing, but the outcome is doubtful.

The correspondent confirmed that the state of siege had been extended to three more areas, adding there is no question of relaxation of the tension.—Reuter.

Cinema Employees May Strike Today

Cinema employees may go on strike today commencing at noon, should their demands, presented to local theatre owners recently, not be met, it was learned last night. A meeting of cinema representatives has been planned for 9 o'clock this morning in order to frame a reply to the Social Affairs Bureau of the Nanking Government. Although theatre owners are prepared to pay more wages, the demand by the employees that a case of dismissal should first be referred to the Social Affairs Bureau, is regarded as a ridiculous one.

★Soviets Stage Big Counter-Attack Near Lake Ilmen

Swedes, and Pushkin's poem "Poltava." The country is hilly and cut by many ravines and roads. It is extremely muddy at this time of the year.

Though the danger to Leningrad is still grave Soviet confidence in being able to hold it has steadily grown during the past week, Reuter's correspondent adds. Of 13 infantry, five tank and three motorised divisions with which the Germans started their big advance on the city over six weeks ago, many have been routed and moral among the Germans forces in this part of the front is said to be growing worse, and worse.

German casualties in the offensive against Leningrad are estimated at 100,000.

Nazis Near Leningrad

The Soviet midnight communique states: "During Oct. 2 our troops stubbornly fought the enemy along the entire front. During Sept. 30, 20 enemy aircraft were destroyed. We lost two planes."

The distance of the Germans from Leningrad varies considerably, says Reuter's correspondent in Moscow. At some points they are close to the city but along the Finnish Gulf they are being kept at bay by the fleet, as can be seen by the Russian accounts of fighting a good distance west of Kronstadt and the German claims of shelling Oranienbaum from long-range guns. Oranienbaum is opposite Kronstadt which is Leningrad's island fortress 20 miles west of the city.

Interesting Admission

An interesting admission by the newspaper "Red Star," official organ of the Soviet army, is that during an earlier German advance against Leningrad they were held back only by weary troops who had retreated often all the way from the German frontier and by the city's newly mobilised Home guard. Now fresh troops are increasingly active and the Germans, who have failed to encircle the city, are often barely able to hold their positions and in many cases they have been pushed back.

The weather and bogging terrain are making operations increasingly difficult, leading to the growing impression that Herr Hitler has failed in his summer storming of Leningrad and may now wait for frozen earth when the boggy northern approches to the city are better for military operations than now.

Not Much Achieved

Meanwhile the Germans may attempt to demoralise the city's population by bombing, but according to the Soviet press bombings have not achieved much so far although many dwellings are damaged or wrecked.

The impression also is gaining ground that the Germans have been unable to concentrate aircraft on anything like the scale of the blitz against Britain. This is due to the vast drain of many fronts upon German resources and also to the successful bombings by the Russians of German aerodromes close to the front.—Reuter.

Fleet Air Arm Successes

London, Oct 3.

The Fleet Air Arm has sunk or damaged forty enemy warships, 440,000 tons of shipping, and shot down nearly two hundred planes, giving these figures, a senior naval officer, speaking in London today, said that these results amply justified our belief that the torpedo was the primary weapon for aircraft in the Royal Navy.

This was proved with our attacks on the Blamarck, the Littorio, and other warships. The officer described the work of observers as "unbelievably fine" adding "on each occasion that we have met the Italian fleet, observers have given us the correct number and disposition of the ships, so that we had the picture complete, despite the obvious difficulties of making the correct recognition of ships from the air."—Reuter.

Knox's Speech Seen As Warning To Japan

London, Oct. 3.

The reference to Japan by Colonel Frank Knox, United States Secretary of the Navy, in his speech on Wednesday was regarded here yesterday by usually trustworthy quarters as a sharp warning to Japan.

These quarters said, however, it was a sign of Washington's impatience at Japan's tactics rather than an indication of an actual breakdown in Japanese-American talks.

There was clear evidence here that other Pacific powers, including Britain, were not aware of any rupture in Washington-Tokyo conversations, reliable sources said.

Col. Knox, in a speech before the American Bar Association Convention in Indianapolis, included Japan in a warning that the United States was committed to the defeat of Chancellor Adolf Hitler and his Axis satellites.—United Press.

Berlin Press Sardonic

Berlin, Oct. 3.

Authorized sources here yesterday concentrated their comments regarding the speech of Colonel Frank Knox, Secretary of the U.S. Navy, on his remarks listing Japan as a "positive enemy just when United States-Japanese negotiations are underway."

Afternoon newspapers sardonically thanked Col. Knox for being "franker than President Roosevelt thus dared himself. But neither naval or world supremacy can be achieved by such rhetorical heroism as Col. Knox displayed," said the newspapers.

The "Nachtausgabe" pointed out that "with this speech, one of President Roosevelt's closest collaborators has confirmed that the United States no longer is counting on Bolshevism, which hereafter may receive some support, but in the future will rely on co-operation of the British and American Fleets."—United Press.

Quetta, Oct. 3.

The fighting qualities and heroism displayed by Indian troops in "operations against the enemy in the Middle East were eulogized by Lieutenant-Colonel L.B. Jones in narrating experiences in India, Eritrea and Syria as Commander of the Indian brigade.

He said that although each of these fronts presented new problems the Indians' quick adaptability to changing conditions was proof of their high standard of training in peace-time.

He stated that two American correspondents who had seen the war in Norway, Belgium, Holland, France and Greece were greatly impressed with the coolness and courage of the Indian soldier, whom they ranked as superior to German and other soldiers on the continent.—Reuter.

THE CINEMA

"The Family"

Unprecedented in the history of motion picture business in this country, all well-known directors in the Chinese film industry and all well known stars, including the former and present cinema queens, have combined to make "The Family," latest Chinese screen production a great success. The picture is being shown at both the "Strand" and "Astor" theatres to capacity crowds. Immense interest is being shown by both foreigners and Chinese in the picture which tells a story in a most vivid way of the big family system in China, the struggle between the younger and older generations and its numerous interesting episodes. The story is about Mr. Kao or Master Kao, the aged leader of a Chinese family of four generations. All members of the big family attend the New Year Eve banquet, except his two sons, one of whom falls in love with Peng Min, the slave girl in the Kao residence. Upholding old traditions and not knowing of the romance old Kao promises to make the girl the concubine of another man not related to the family. She ends her life by throwing herself into a pond, thus sacrificing herself in the conflict between the younger and older generations. This is but one of the episodes in the big family and every other young member of the family has his or her story to tell. Finally the mind of the old man gives way and he dies at a time when the family is pretty well dispersed. There are free love, marriages arranged by a parent, cancellation of marriages and even what may be termed companionship marriage indulged in by an uncle of the family. Many Chinese traditions are explained.

All stars appear at their best in this picture and the selection of characters defies criticism. The former queen, Miss Butterfly Wu, Mr. Mei Shi, Mr. Wang Yung and Miss Chen Yung-soung, all appear in the film.—H.Y.C.

Mr. Roland Young can take a bow for his fine impersonation of the late Mr. Thorne Smith's character, Cosmo Topper and his fine acting is given added impetus by the excellent acting of Miss Joan Blondell who plays the part of a charming ghost. The latest "Topper" film which opened at the Nanking Theatre yesterday promises to have a long and successful run in Shanghai and is easily one of the best films in its class to arrive here recently. Miss Blondell, who acts the part of a ghost becomes drunk on champagne despite the fact that ghosts are supposed to be transparent. Mr. Roland Young as the dapper Cosmo Topper turns detective and finds a pack of trouble in the shape of his wife, Miss Billy Burke and an unknown murderer. The ghost scenes are easily the best in the picture while several shots of ectoplasm are also taken. To the reading public, Mr. Thorne Smith needs no introduction. He is the writer who made his characters do all sort of strange things. In this film they all do strange things much to the delight of the audience. By all means see this latest "Topper" hit and laugh all your blues away.—A.P.P.

Mrs. S. A. Hardoon Dies After Brief Illness

Mrs. S. A. (Liza) Hardoon, 78-year old Chinese born wife of the late Mr. Silas Aaron, Hardoon, died suddenly in her home, 1373 Bubbling Well Road, at 6 o'clock yesterday evening after a brief illness.

One of the richest persons in the Far East, Mrs. Hardoon was left what is today estimated as a fortune of $700,000,000 when her husband died on June 17, 1931. She is survived by eleven adopted sons and daughters.

Despite her enormous resources and the huge interests which she represented in Shanghai and elsewhere, Mrs. Hardoon spent the last decade of her life in complete retirement in her huge estate which takes in a great part of Bubbling Well Road, Avenue Foch and Hardoon Road.

Her passing will come as a profound shock to thousands of friends and associates throughout the world especially in view of the fact that she was the last remaining figure, who saw the great Hardoon estate rise to power in Shanghai.

Mrs. Hardoon, in co-operation with her late husband, established an institute of education named St Ching's College in pursuance of her deep interest in all things pertaining to China and her people. Scores of Chinese youths owe their education to her assistance.

That she had a heart also for things which were not of China may be shown by her spontaneous action when together with her late husband she threw open their spacious grounds to the British Defence Force which arrived here in 1927 and provided them with everything necessary in the way of food and accommodation.

Huge Estate

Nanking Road and the neighbourhood were hers in great part and in much more than name alone. It has been estimated that her assets in such local lands should, at present rates, add up to a sum of CN$700,000,000 or an equivalent of about £10,000,000.

A native born Chinese, Mrs. Liza Hardoon was married to the late Mr. Silas Aaron Hardoon about 1895. She adopted the Hebrew religion after her marriage. All her adopted children follow the Hebrew religion. The late Mr. Hardoon was a British subject and a native of Baghdad, coming from a notable family long known for its staunch service to Judaism.

For years it has been a well known fact that most of the important pieces of land in the International Settlement and French Concession were the property of the Hardoon family. A befitting memorial in the shape of the Liza Building on Nanking Road was erected several years ago.

Lawsuit Looms

Following the death of her husband ten years ago, H.M. Supreme Court adjusted the entire estate in the favour of Mrs. Liza Hardoon. The estate today is threatened by a lawsuit in which ten persons, represented Mr. O. Okamoto, are claiming a total of CN$437,000,000.

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Hardoon are expected to take place within the next few days. It is believed that she will be buried next to her husband in the garden of their residence. It will be recalled that Mr. Hardoon was laid to rest there with orthodox Jewish rites ten years ago.

Among the passengers was Mr. Soji Saito, 20-year-old sailor of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha's Nagato Maru, who was arrested in Singapore on January 1 of this year on charges of violating the Military Secrets Law by sketching the fortified zone of Singapore. Mr. Saito was sentenced to eight months' imprisonment on February 4.

Details of U.S. Warships Said in Hands of Spy

New York, Oct. 3.

An alleged German spy had full information regarding new United States battleships, according to evidence given on Thursday by a Federal Bureau of Investigation agent and Mr. William Seabold German-born informer.

Mr. Seabold testified at the resumption of the spy trial that Mr. Richard H. Kleiss, one of the 16 accused, believing him (Seabold) to be a Gestapo agent gave him an extensive report for transmission to Germany. In the report Mr. Kleiss described details of armaments for the new battleships and also details of a new aircraft carrier.

"Ghost Ships" for England

A letter dated September 17, 1940, produced as evidence purported to show that Mr. Kleiss was the author. The letter also reported the reconditioning of a fleet of "ghost ships" for England. "Certain old ghost ships of 6,000 tons are being re-conditioned and will sail for England," it said.

The letter also disclosed the failure of efforts to organize Newport shipyard workers of German origin. "A gang of men of German origin were held together for a very short time; most of them own their own homes and won't commit themselves to anything," the letter said.

Bomb-Sight Secrets Out

Mr. Seabold also testified that a German spy had paid agents in the United States money with which to obtain the secret of the Sperry bomb-sight, saying that Edwin Siegler, one of the accused and chief butcher in the former liner America, in July 1940 delivered "materials" to another defendant in Lisbon who has not been apprehended.

Siegler returned with money for espionage, he said. Siegler received $1,500 for the bomb-sight.

Mr. Seabold also declared that Siegler and Franz Stigler, chief baker aboard the America, after returning from a cruise aboard the liner Mashut, told him of underground hangars and a large airport being constructed at St. Thomas (Virgin Islands).—Reuter.

Chinese Celebrate Changsha 'Victory'

Chinese in Shanghai were jubilant yesterday over the "unprecedented victory" in Hunan where Japanese forces were reported to be retreating by three routes. Although no firecrackers were let off here owing to the changed situation, all Chinese appeared to be in happy mood and would refer to reports about the victory while chatting with friends and relatives. The "victory" story displaced all news in the leading Chinese dailies, which expressed confidence over the final victory. Much white space was left in several leading Chinese dailies, indicating that the press censors had taken away much "victory" news for political reasons.

Although frankly admitting that the Japanese, mostly parachute soldiers and plainclothes men, had once reached the outskirts of Changsha, capital of Hunan, the Chinese press here never admitted that the Japanese had "completed their occupation" of Changsha, as the Japanese press would have people believe. The fact that no foreign newspaperman flying over Hunan and Changsha under the Japanese direction left the Japanese plane and landed in Changsha caused the "Chinese American Daily News" to express great doubt about Japanese reports of complete occupation. If April 1 is a day on which lies can be told, then the Japanese may just as well set aside a whole week commencing September 27 as a lying week, says the editorial of the daily.

"Third Defeat"

Commenting on the "third defeat" suffered by the Japanese in Hunan, the "National Herald" says that the latest Chinese victory is more full of meaning than all previous ones. The Japanese were trying to impress the Americans with their strength in fighting during the negotiations at Washington so as to cause the Americans to give in, but their "tragic defeat" has exposed their weakness. Tokyo's statement that it would not hesitate to fight the British and Americans was merely an empty threat.

A few days before the Japanese withdrawal in Hunan, rumours were circulated in the market here that the Japanese attack aiming at occupation of Changsha would be the last battle in China, after which peace talks would be resumed. These rumours are now automatically denied. During the fighting, prices of cotton jumped up and fears were entertained by some speculators that if peace talks were resumed prices would drop quickly. There was no drop in price and on the contrary several previous records have been broken during the past few days.

Cuba to Celebrate "China Day"

Havana, Oct. 3.

Dr. T. T. Li, Chinese Minister to Cuba, yesterday inaugurated the "Bowl of Rice" campaign in Cuba during a reception attended by 100 Cuban and American pressmen, radio commentators and cameramen.

Dr. Li, who is the honorary president of the Cuban United China Relief campaign, declared China is fighting for liberty and democracy and it is largely as a result of this sacrifice that the Americas have been kept safe from totalitarian aggression.

Colonel Fulgencio Batista, President, was scheduled to issue shortly a decree naming October 9 as "China Day" which will climax the "Bowl of Rice" campaign. Twenty thousand are expected to attend the function.—United Press.

Irish Ace Bags 21st Enemy Plane

London, Oct. 3.

One of Britain's leading fighter pilots, the Irishman Flight - Lieutenant Brendan (Paddy) Finucane, who leads a flight of the famous Australian Squadron, shot down his 21st enemy aircraft on Thursday, a few days before his 21st birthday, says the Air Ministry News Service.

Hull Reticent on Japanese-American Conferences

Washington, Oct. 3.

There was really nothing new of a tangible nature, replied Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, when asked yesterday whether there were any new developments in the Japanese situation.

Questioned whether he expected to see the Japanese Ambassador, Admiral Nomura, in the near future, Mr. Hull said he thought he would rather let the Ambassador speak on that, because he himself had no engagement.

When correspondents entered the press conference room yesterday they saw a birthday cake with 21 candles which had just been lighted. It was Mr. Cordell Hull's 70th birthday. After the Secretary of State had entered the room, one of the reporters said that, on behalf of the correspondents, he wished to express their collective good wishes to the Secretary and the warmth of their feelings that burned far brighter for him than the light of the candles.

Lessons Learned

The Secretary of State, in returning thanks, revealed that he had been almost continuously in the Government service for 49 years. "One of the most important lessons that has occurred to me out of this contact and experience has been that statesmen and peoples everywhere must recognize the strong responsibility which liberty imposes on those who enjoy it. They must stand for stable government, for the intelligent and unselfish application of those ideas and practices which make for peace, stability and social advancement."

Continuing, Mr. Hull said: "We are living through a dark period. It is in times like these that each of us needs desperately to hold fast to the faith that is in us, a faith in the destiny of free men and the supreme worth of Christian morality. With that faith we shall gladly meet the sacrifices demanded of us by the barrenness of these days. With that faith we cannot lose hope that the lesson which so many of us have learned, as I have learned, will be learned by all."—Reuter.

Another Soviet Mine Found—Koh Ishii

Tokyo, Oct. 3.

Questioned regarding the floating mine menace in the Japan Sea as a result of explosives being torn loose from moorings in Soviet waters, Mr. Koh Ishii, Deputy Spokesman of the Information Board, at today's foreign press conference told correspondents that "another mine" had been discovered by a Japanese vessel since the previous conference (Tuesday).

Meanwhile, the Moscow talks on the mine question were continuing as a result of the Japanese Government's representations, Mr. Ishii revealed.—Domei.

32 Missing From Vessel Off Japan

Tokyo, Oct. 3.

A despatch in the "Kokumin" from Nagasaki yesterday said that 32 crew members were missing from the ill-fated Chozan Maru which sank off Nagasaki on September 30. Rescue work still was difficult because of rough seas but is continuing, said the despatch.—United Press.

No New Developments In U.S., Japan Talks

Tokyo, Oct. 3.

There were no new developments in the Japanese-American negotiations now going on, Mr. Koh Ishii, Deputy Spokesman of the Information Board announced during today's foreign press conference. He added, however, that the talks were continuing.

Asked what effect, if any, the current military developments in China had on the diplomatic talks, Mr. Ishii declared: "That is essentially a question to be asked of the Washington Government." He added that the Japanese Government had received most reliable information that Chungking had been gravely shocked by the defeat of Chinese troops in the Chungking Ninth War Zone.

These troops, it was added, were considered by General Chiang Kai-shek as among his best in the field.—Domei.

S.M. Orchestra:

Standards of Culture

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—JUNIUS SECUNDUS in his letter on the S.M. Orchestra has spoken the truth, he has expressed something which has been troubling a good many others too.

I, for my part, cannot understand how Shanghailanders do not recognize the danger in their midst caused by T.B. cases living together with healthy members of the community. All European countries and—as I believe—all other countries in the world give very special attention to their T.B. cases. In Europe the system adopted as a rule is to have all T.B. cases under continual public control. They get free treatment, they are sent to health resorts for treatment, and the members of the afflicted family are kept under control to prevent the spreading of the disease.

I do not know how much money would be needed to carry out some such scheme in Shanghai, but I should think that the money spent for the Municipal Orchestra, together with public donations which would surely come forward in support of this idea, would enable the Council to do something for the unhappy victims of the dreadful disease. The same applies to mental diseases.

After all, a high standard of culture is not only shown through love for music, but in the first place by the community fulfilling its foremost duty of helping the afflicted poor who cannot help themselves.

HEALTH FIRST.

He Thinks It Is Poetry!

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—"Am I alone?" a correspondent asks. WHO CARES? counters another. While "the Old Book" says, "It is not good for man to be alone." A comfortable room, a radio set, a programme of classical music, a very good local orchestra, etc., conjures up the following vision to me. How is this little effort, sir? I won't bother you with it all. I thought this affair was reckoned dead and buried some time ago. So far I haven't read anything in the newspapers about the monument being stolen, so it must be still standing on the spot. I am now breaking into a poetic gem. I wouldn't be surprised if I am heaved out, that is if JUNIUS SECUNDUS likes it.

Xantippe I know was a terrible scold
But only one half of that story's been told
For Xan had to worry and cut and contrive
To keep half a dozen young "Soccies" alive
While their slouchy old father—the wise Socrates
Penniless, hatless and bare to the knees,—
In a greasy old toga paraded the "pave"
Delighted all Athens with wise saws and grave.
But all the wise maxims which Socrates said
Ne'er earned for the youngsters a morsel of bread.
The stew-pan was broken with nothing to stew
The bed for the group, a Sicilian plank.
And still he kept chinning the logical crank
No wonder she turned out a bit of a shrew
I think the old lady had reason don't you?

I would prefer being alone to this.

SCOTTY.

Austrian Refugees:

Organization Suggested

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—My heart smote me after I had read the letter of AN AUSTRIAN, I believe it is high time for all Austrian people to link together and form a club or society or something of that kind so that we can, united, salute the next Austrian Consul when he—I hope very soon—disembarks on The Bund. The Austrian people were and will be quite different from the Huns, and the Austrian was always more closely connected to the great western democracies than to Germany since that country separated in 1804 from Austria. Germany, an uncultured and artless upstart, has never understood the old and venerable Austrian culture, neither mentally nor intellectually. Hitler, indeed, a born Austrian, has revenged at last on Germans the treacherous conquest in 1866, by leading that people downhill.

AUSTRIAN FOR EVER.

Position of the Jews

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—If your correspondent W. ADAR, whose letter appeared in today's issue of your esteemed paper, pretends to write "in the name of many more followers" and if he even asserts "there are neither German nor Austrian refugees—there are only Jewish refugees," he is wrong for two reasons.

First, in various parts of the world including Shanghai there are several thousands of non-Jewish Austrian "refugees," who left their homeland soon after the Anschluss of their own free will for the only reason that they had no liking for the Nazis Though I do not profess to speak for these thousands I venture to say that they are pro-Austrian, pro-British and logically anti-Nazi and anti-German. It is not surprising, therefore, that those true Austrians, who left everything behind for nothing but their freedom, are greatly disappointed by the reluctance of the Democracies to recognize them as Allies.

Second, the problem as to whether an Austrian-born Jew considers himself as an Austrian national or, as Mr. ADAR would like to have it, as a national Jew who, like himself, longs for the Jewish national state, is one which every individual must decide for himself. But to illustrate to your readers the absurdity of Mr. ADAR'S conception of the problem, which by the way is of far too complex a nature to be dealt with in these columns, I just want to argue as to what would happen if the majority of the millions of Jewish United States citizens—if they were to follow Mr. ADAR'S strange ideas and if this were feasible at all—would declare themselves one day as non-Americans.

I know a fair number of Austrian Jewish refugees who regard themselves as genuine Austrians, and quite rightly so. They were born and brought up there and their feelings are exactly the same as those of any true non-Jewish Austrians, who hope to return some day to a free and independent Austria. It must not be over-looked that these Austrian Jews have been forced to leave their country by the Nazis and not by the Austrian authorities.

To enlighten Mr. ADAR about the history of the world-wide fame of Vienna's medical school and other disciplines, I can tell him that it existed already at a time (about 100 years ago) when, by order of the law, all Jews had to wear the ill-famed yellow badge and were not permitted to occupy any prominent posts. But I can assure him that I am not an anti-semite.

NOT IN THE NAME OF THE 1000.

Office Hours:

Views of a Chinese

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—May I ask you to publish my opinion as follows in your valuable columns for the sake of assisting the office workers, the most miserable class in face of this ever-increasing high cost of living, to get some benefits out of the office hours' scheme.

"Penny saved, penny gained" always holds good, especially true to those bread-earners who depend upon salaries and allowances for their sustenance. By this scheme they can at least save two trips of transportation during the tiffin hours, or even four trips if they go to their office on foot in the morning and return home in the afternoon, as they have ample time to manage it. Or, they can also save a few dollars for their tiffins which have, in one particular case I know, eaten up one-third of an office boy's wages. His salary and allowance amount to $100 or more, but he has to pay $1 to $1.20 for the tiffin to stuff up his stomach! The problem of nourishment is out of the question to be considered.

On the one hand, this scheme will help office workers save a bit and on the other it may give a chance to them for some extra work in order to eke out their meagre income. One such case comes to my knowledge, that of a young man working in an American firm which adopts this scheme who has secured a position in the box office of a Chinese cinema, thus doubling his income to meet his monthly bills.

Should all the offices and firms adopt the above scheme, there would be no inconveniences in the performance of their business and it would not be detrimental to the efficiency of their workers.

Though it happens that I am a man who works without the limitation of office hours, yet I would beg the taipans in Shanghai to take note of my humble idea as mentioned above.

FROM THE "NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS" OF OCTOBER 4, 1871

A Ningpo correspondent writes:—that an official proclamation has been put out, stating that it is intended to throw open to natives the benefit of the transit pass system, as soon as arrangements can be completed at Shanghai to carry the proposal into effect—so soon, we presume, that is, as our obstructive Taotai gives place to the more intelligent man who has been named as his successor.

IMPARTIAL NOT NEUTRAL

MOSCOW CONFERENCE

One of the surprises of the week is the rapidity with which the Anglo-American-Russian conference at Moscow concluded its business. It was expected, when the representatives of the three countries first met and appointed sub-committees to investigate Russia's needs, that those bodies would have their reports prepared by about the end of the week and that a full session of the conference would then make its decisions. As it is, the conference finished two days ahead of the original programme. There was at one time a certain amount of anxiety concerning the slight delay in holding the conference, but it has now transpired that those few days were well spent in making full preparations on both sides, so that when the meeting actually took place the British and the Americans were fully apprised of the extent to which they could assist the Russians, while the latter were also completely informed of what supplies they wanted. The result was that Great Britain and the United States, through their representatives, were able to assure Moscow that whatever its military and civil authorities required would be forthcoming.

Much of the success of the meetings was due to the keen, incisive mind of M. Stalin, it is reported, but it is also to be attributed to the very full powers which were given to the British and American representatives, who appear to have been equipped with power to make immediate decisions without that continual reference back which is so often responsible for delay. When such a man as Lord Beaverbrook is sent to head a mission it may be taken for granted that he is vested with all the authority necessary to reach agreements in the shortest possible time, and indeed he appears to have taken to Moscow that same amount of drive and energy which made his speeding-up of aeroplane production in Great Britain so great a success. From this there is an interesting conclusion to be drawn. It has often been said that one of the advantages of a dictatorship is that the leader is able to make quick decisions without consultation with colleagues, but that democracies are hampered by constitutional requirements which prevent similar speed.

In the main that is true, but this war has seen a development within the limits of constitutional procedure just as remarkable as in a dictator-governed country. The enormous confidence of the British masses in Mr. Winston Churchill, in the wisdom of his decisions, together with his ability to surround himself with men in whom he can trust and who also possess the confidence of the people have been responsible, since his accession to power, for a general quickening of the war effort throughout the Empire. Mr. Churchill's confidence in Lord Beaverbrook, which is shared by the whole of the British people, has equipped him in his various missions with that authority which comes from realization of the fact that he has behind him the support of his Prime Minister and through him of the people towards whose victory he is bending every possible energy. The implicit faith of the masses in Mr. Churchill is the direct result of the manner in which he led the Empire and its Allies out of the Slough of Despond during the summer of last year to the certainty of ultimate victory which prevails today.

Deliveries of arms and materials to Russia are already taking place. These may at present be small as compared with what will be forthcoming in the near future, and it is reasonable to expect that, by the time the Russians are ready to use it, the equipment which they have been promised will be at their disposal. The output is already in being. Adequate transport is now the immediate problem, but, as it has already been pointed out, that does not, as the military situation stands at the moment, present insuperable difficulties. Already steps are being taken to overcome them and in a few weeks time there should be a very substantial increase in the aid which will be going forward to Russia. The promise to give Russia all she wants is of very considerable importance as showing that, at any rate for the time being, Britain is in a position to meet new developments with certainty of sufficient equipment, and the devotion of the winter months to the building-up of Russian resources should have an important bearing upon what may be expected to take place with the advent of spring.

SUBJECT ITALY

Much of the local enemy propaganda is of such stuff, as may be expected from those amusing little creatures who have an Italian and a hurdy-gurdy as business partners, that it never fails to cause a certain amount of amusement. Yesterday the German propaganda sheet published another instalment of an article by one Dr. Wilhelm von Kries, entitled "Strategy and Tactics of the British War Propaganda," in which he makes the following quotation from another writer:—

> "Italy like Germany has been lifted out of the shadow of the 'chaos and night,' in which the Great War and Communism had placed her, by the efforts and inspiration of Mussolini. He has not only brought order at home and an Empire abroad, but he has given the Italians a pride and a confidence they never before possessed: to quote an observation I once heard, 'He has taken a third-class country and made it into a second-class country and persuaded the world it is a first-class country.'"

It is quite apparent that the German propagandists have no regard whatever for the feeling of their Italian Allies, or they certainly would not have published any such passage. With the surrender of the Italian commander at Wolcheit, the last Italian force of any size has been disposed of in Abyssinia, and Italians may very rightly ask why the Germans should bring up the matter of the former Italian Empire at a juncture like this. The pride and confidence of the Italians led to the destruction of their huge armies in northern Africa by numerically inferior British forces, the Empire is a thing of the past, and for the Germans to prate about it and Mussolini's remarkable deeds savours somewhat of rubbing salt into an open wound. It is true that Mussolini might have passed into history as a great man, if he had kept his country out of war, but the temptation of plunder was too great for him, and he has lost his Empire and placed his people under an alien yoke. It is now the task of the democracies to extricate him from the mess into which he has got himself.

The "New Leader" a British Independent Labour organ, gives a new picture of that Italy upon which Mussolini has conferred so many benefits. The people show a cynical passiveness towards the Axis alliance. That is probably as much as they dare show, for if they were at all forthright in the expression of their disgust over the bad leadership from which they are now suffering, it is more than likely that the Gestapo, imported from Germany, would have something to say in the matter. This week has seen the imposition of further rationing in Italy, where the people see their own products, the result of their own labours, filched from them and sent into Germany. They are being plundered in the same way as any other occupied country for that is what Italy has now been reduced to. If Mussolini is the No. 1 Quisling in Italy, Farinacci runs immediately behind him. As Hitler's most servile agent he is loathed by the Italian and when the Nazis wished that he should be appointed Minister of the Interior, Mussolini dared not agree.

That is highly significant. It is a clear demonstration that Mussolini realizes that there are lengths to which even the Nazis dare not go in Italy, and his fear undoubtedly was that, if such an appointment aroused public wrath to any great extent, and disorders followed, Hitler would seize upon them as an excuse for entering Italy, and making German control of the country even more effective than it is at the moment. The parallel between Italy and the occupied countries is all the more complete when it is recalled that Italian industries are suffering because of the exportation of skilled workers to German factories. Here again is another proof of the German domination and the determination to reduce all of Europe with the exception of Germany, which was to be highly, and exclusively industrialized, to mere agricultural areas. Mussolini had the opportunity of being a great man. Indeed his work during the years of peace clearly stamped him as such, but his entry into war, the incurring of severe defeats, and finally the subjection of his nationals to their natural enemy have robbed him of any claim to greatness, and established him for all time as a sadly-misguided man.

Bigger Raids on Italy

Since the beginning of August there has been a marked intensification by the R.A.F. of raids on Italian industrial cities and ports. Attacks on Libyan ports have become almost routine. They do great damage and cause heavy losses among Axis supplies and vessels in those ports, but in any estimate of the extension of the R.A.F.'s activities in the Mediterranean they may be dismissed with the remark that they, too, have increased in frequency. It is to attacks upon cities in Italy itself that attention should be drawn, since developments on other fronts, of more immediate importance to the war, have eclipsed what has undoubtedly been a remarkable series of feats by British fliers. In the first week in August, in addition to attacks on Libya, Crete, and Sicilian ports, Reggio in the mainland of Calabria was raided, a floating dock was sunk a mile off the Italian coast, a six-inch gun cruiser was torpedoed, two Sardinian ports were attacked spectacularly, and a raid was made on the seaplane base of Alghero in collaboration with a force of destroyers. None of these attacks was given prominence in the news reports, because they were overshadowed by the great resistance being put up by the Russians against the Nazis. They were nevertheless of great importance to the development of the strategy of the war against the Axis. They might be said to foreshadow a definite effort to bomb Italy out of the war. Throughout the months of August and September attacks on Italian ports and cities continued, the tempo steadily growing until the beginning of this month. In the last two days of September and on October 1 Taranto, Agrigento, Borizzo, Porto Empedocle, and the town of Elmas in Sardinia were bombed in one night. On the next, Genoa, Savona, Spezia, Palermo, Trapani, Marsala, Castelvitrano, the island of Rhodes, and the industrial centres of Turin and Milan were attacked. On September 30 the R.A.F. communiqué tersely announced raids on Genoa, Turin, and "other objectives in northern Italy." On October 2 it was announced that Gerbini and Comida had been bombed, and that the navy had shelled the island of Pantellaria. The opening week of the intensified campaign and the progress of the campaign in the last few days have been cited as an illustration, no more, of the terrific attacks the Italians are now experiencing. These attacks are one reason for the rapid decline in moral which has been reported from all the areas in Italy which are accessible to British planes. They indicate that Britain has at last found the leisure and the planes to give Mussolini the attention which he had hoped to avoid by hiding behind the skirts of his master, Hitler. It is possible that the shadow of forthcoming major military actions in the Middle East can be seen in these attacks. In the event of fighting on a large scale breaking out in that part of the world, it would be of great convenience to the Allies to be able to use the Mediterranean supply route without the danger of attack by Italian and Nazi aircraft. The route is being used, in spite of this danger, as the recent successful passage of a large convoy through the bottle-neck between Sicily and Africa shows. And it is a sure sign that the route will continue to be used, when the R.A.F. and the Fleet Air Arm turn so much attention to Italian bases from which planes can menace ships passing with supplies close to Italian coasts.

ALONG THE HIGHWAYS

Oct. 2—From January until the end of June, one of the most useful flowers for vase decoration is the Sweet Pea: the early crops are, of course, grown under glass and most of us have to depend on purchased blooms until May comes along. The flowering season in the garden is limited to about six weeks and to those who have been used to gathering armfuls of flowers all through the Summer in Europe, this may appear to be so short as to make it not worth while to grow the plants here; but to most of us, Sweet Peas are always worth growing despite the fact that they generally give us a few scares during the Spring! The plants grow strongly and just as we are expecting a good show of bloom, down comes a heavy shower of rain and all buds drop off: we often begin to think that all our labour has been in vain, when a spell of bright sunshine comes along and our plants soon become a mass of flowers. They continue producing flowers until they exhaust themselves early in July. To grow Sweet Peas successfully, it is most important that they have special treatment: if we begin our task well, the job is half done. The plants will grow in a semi-shaded place, but they will lack vigour and a situation in full sunshine will give far better returns. Plenty of old manure is required and this should be dug in well below the surface at this time of the year so as to have it just where it is required when flowering time comes along next May: the top soil will be quite rich enough to provide food for the haulms, but some old soot and lime rubbish could be incorporated with it; no other manures are necessary. Seed is sown at this time of the year in a bed outside or in pots; the only advantage to be gained in sowing in pots is that the plants may be transferred later without damage being caused to the roots. Some growers prefer to leave their plants in pots all Winter and transfer them into their flowering quarters early next year, but we like to get the plants established in their permanent beds before the middle of November, if this is possible. Hardiness is essential to the Sweet Pea and plants in pots are liable to become too tender when protected all the Winter. Some growers attempt to force Sweet Peas into flower by giving applications of artificial manure, but this is a case of mistaken kindness, for to attempt to force the plants will only result in the buds dropping prematurely. Cold water applied at flowering time is another cause of buds falling off and this also results in the foliage of the plants presenting a sickly appearance. It will have been noticed that many buds have fallen off plants after a heavy fall of cold rain just when we were anticipating a fine show of bloom.—W.J.K.

"...but it is sometimes a disadvantage to be so very guarded. If a woman conceals her affection with the same skill from the object of it, she may lose the opportunity of fixing him; and it will then be but poor consolation to believe the world equally in the dark. There is so much of gratitude or vanity in almost every attachment, that it is not safe to leave any to itself. We can all begin freely—a slight preference is natural enough: but there are very few of us who have heart enough to be really in love without encouragement. In nine cases out of ten a woman had better show more affection than she feels."—Jane Austen.

From a Correspondent

In Leaves from my Unwritten Diary, Sir Harry Preston tells a beautiful story of Barrie.

"We all went back in a cab afterwards to Sir James's apartment overlooking the river on Adelphi Terrace. On a side table stood a casket. In the casket reposed the manuscript of the last diary that Captain Scott, the Arctic explorer, wrote. He wrote it in his tent as he lay in his sleeping-bag beyond human succour facing death from cold and starvation. 'Courage,' he traced with his dying hand. It was the last word he ever wrote, and the letters drop away as his hand fell, so that the final word straggles down the page. In due course the diary came back to England, and so to Sir James Barrie, Scott's friend, and the godfather of his son.

"Now, Barrie's right hand had become disabled. He could not write with it. And he could not like Conrad, when his rheumatic hands failed him, dictate. He was about to give up. Never again would that magic right hand pen the enchanted words which have moved millions of human hearts to tears and laughter.

"But at that crisis of his life Barrie took Scott's diary out of the casket. He saw that last struggling, drooping word written by a dying man years ago in a terrible desert of ice around the Pole... 'Courage'....

"And he said to himself; 'If Scott had the courage to go on writing his imperishable message as he lay dying there, I ought to have the fortitude to teach myself to write with my left hand.'

"And with infinite labour and patience he did teach himself to write with his left hand.

"He regained the use of his right hand later, but he still kept his left hand in practice. 'I will not discard my good friend, who stood by me so well in adversity,' he said."

Have we not a message here for grey days and does not a quiet reading of the Gospels disclose that courage is a primary virtue insisted upon by Jesus? Christ's kingdom is not of this world. It does not call for the prowess of the warrior, but it does challenge the fortitude of the brave. There was no taint of cowardice in Jesus, and to be His disciple demands high moral fibre and real manliness. He foresaw a situation bristling with danger to His followers, and courage was a desideratum in His disciples. Lifting the curtain of the future He disclosed to all who would follow Him the opposition and peril which discipleship would involve. 'Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake.' He who would follow Christ must not be faint-hearted or double-minded, he must be prepared to surrender many interests formerly dear to him, brace himself to the renunciation of the closest earthly relationships, and be ready to tread the same rought path, and bear the same cross as the Master. The demand is for the lofty courage of endurance, in the spirit and for the sake of Christ. Of this sustained heroism Jesus says, "In your patience ('patient endurance') ye shall win your souls." "He that endureth to the end shall be saved."

Jesus is Himself the supreme example of high moral courage. The emphasis which has been laid upon His meekness and compassion have tended to obscure His strength and virility. But a remark in Acts...'When they saw the boldness of Peter and John....they took knowledge of them that they had been with Jesus,' is a record of the dominant impression made by Jesus upon His enemies. Matthew speaks of His fearlessness and fidelity to truth: 'Master, we know that thou art true, and teachest the way of God in truth, neither carest thou for any man: for thou regardest not the person of men.' His fearless exposure of hypocrisy, His disregard of religious practices which had been invested with the sanctity of national custom, His defiance of social caste in receiving sinners and eating with them were the utterances of a courageous righteousness. In danger He was calm and self-possessed, and when He knew that His hour was come, He pressed to the cross with an eagerness which made those who saw Him afraid. Both by His teaching and His way of life Jesus emphasized the duty of being courageous.

There was one thing and one thing only that the Master said we were to fear. It was when He was addressing the disciples in the presence of a thronged audience: 'Have no fear of those who kill the body,' He said, 'but after that can do no more; I will show you whom to fear—fear Him who after he has killed has power to cast you into Gehenna. Yes, I tell you, fear Him.' The disciples are not to fear men; for man's extreme penalty is a mere nothing compared with the consequences of being disloyal to Truth. It is the enemies of Truth, the condemnation of God, that we are to fear—nothing else matters. And this too, is a summons to be daring and undaunted. The enemies of Truth may bomb cities and destroy men's lives, but they cannot destroy men's souls, they are in God's hands. 'So forward, brave hearts.'

ON the back of a seat in the bus numbered 168, running on Lexington Avenue, somebody has carved a brief inscription. "Supremacy Is Doomed," it says. Not White Supremacy, or Aryan Supremacy, or even Black Supremacy—just Supremacy. Of all the New Year's prophecies we have read, this has the most portentous ring and covers the most ground. We thought you ought to know about it.

Autumn Racing Season to Open Today With Programme of Nine Events, Bagshot Favoured

By "The Chaser"

THE cosmopolitan community of Shanghai will be gathered at the Race Course this afternoon—not for the sake of fresh air, but to attend the opening of the autumn racing season. The curtain will rise on the season's racing today when the first of the Shanghai Race Clubs' two-day Eighth Extra Race Meeting will be held and with every prospect of the weather remaining fine, the usual crowd of punters should be out in full force, and who knows, some may come out for fresh air!

At the stroke of 1.15 p.m. the saddling bell will be rung for the first of the nine events which comprise this afternoon's programme. Excellent entries have been received all round and in three or four races we should see fields exceeding 20 starters.

Tipping Difficult Today

Of primary importance will be the Perth Stakes as it is the only "quality" race of the day and here we may see a good lot of first raters facing the barrier at the time of the race. Included among the entries are such public favourites as Bagshot, Silver Fox, Cluniehill, Vim, Night Express, Columbus and Joylight.

The occupation of selecting winners for today is made rather difficult by the fact that this is the first meeting of the season and although we have the training gallops to gauge the merits of the ponies, it is not the most satisfactory method as many, in fact most, ponies do not perform the same in training as in actually racing. Some of them do better and others worse.

Bagshot Favoured

However, taking into consideration the past performances and the training gallops, I think Bagshot should just about be able to do the trick and win the Perth Stakes this afternoon from his bitter rivals Silver Fox and Cluniehill. Vim has done a few good gallops during the past fortnight and is expected to go well. He may be a useful place bet.

Another race which should attract more than passing interest is the Fremantle Plate, the eighth race, which has attracted some of the year's best "Y" class sub-griffins including the sensational Derby winner, Merry Sportsman. Dunhuang and Scorpio are also entered and personally I think the finish will be fought between them with Merry Sportsmen right along side to make the climax a thrilling one. Dunhuang is my selection to win. For places I like Scorpio and Merry Sportsman.

Mad Dash for Victory

The day's racing will commence with the novices doing their spot of work on fifth class ponies and if Bellington is anywhere near fit he should not encounter much difficulty to heading the field at the finish. He will find opposition, however, from Houdini and Port Bradda.

A mad dash for victory will be seen in the second race when the sixth and seventh class ponies match their speed over half-a-mile. Hawaii Clipper should just about be able to make the grade here and earn part of his keep by beating The Sneak and Sunnylight to the post.

Spring Day May Win

Three ponies, to my mind, stand out in the third race which is for "X" class subs. They are Furioso, Spring Day and Wedding Candy. Of the three I think Spring Day is the best. He was not quite fit last spring when he did well to run into places a few times. He has since improved and on the strength of this I pick him to win today from Furioso and Wedding Candy.

The three quarter mile race for fifth class ponies may see Spring Tide spurting past the field to lead them home. He has been doing attractive training gallops recently and though he prefers a longer distance, I think he is good enough to beat this lot of ponies. Petruska and Quick Change may fill the minor berths.

Big Field Expected

There is a colossal entry of 44 in the fifth race but I believe the field will be narrowed down to 25 (if it could be called a narrow one). Mur's Luck and White Atom are bound to carry the bulk of the betting but it will come as no surprise if either of them is beaten as there are such good ones as Brandywine, Shyton, Sneedking and Washington included among the entries. My choise here is Mur's Luck to win from Shyton and White Atom. Brandywine may be a useful outside place bet.

The same lot of ponies are also entered for the sixth race. If White Atom should elect to start here I think he will win from Grand Slam and Charming Companion. The last race may see Un-Un-Un leading Don Blanco past the winning post with Wintrylight filling the remaining place.

June Preisser toured with Kate Smith and her show for two years before she and her sister, Cheery, joined the Ziegfeld Follies. At 19 she's a veteran in the show business and is Henry Aldrich's leading lady in Paramount's "Henry for President."

Dodgers Avenge First Defeat By Reversing Tables on Yankees With 3-2 Victory

By Harry Ferguson
United Press Staff Correspondent

New York, Oct. 2.

GANGLING Whitlow Wyatt, ace of the Brooklyn Dodgers, sent the rags-to-riches gang roaring back into the 1941 World Series classic with a resounding 3 to 2 win over the New York Yankees today.

The Brooklyn win evened up the series, and the two clubs will clash again tomorrow in Yankee Stadium for the third straight day before moving over to the Dodgers' home grounds. It was possible the game tomorrow will be played at the Polo Grounds in view of the small seating capacity at Ebbetts Field.

Yank's Hits Scattered

The Yanks were in rare fettle, pounding the ball consistently and outhitting the "Bums" nine safeties to six. But contrary to usual Yankee uprisings, Joe McCarthy's men could not bunch their blows while the Dodgers bunched four hits in the fifth and sixth innings to score all of their runs.

As confident as ever, the Yankees raced on to the field for the second game and in the second inning pushed across their first score, and Brooklyn fans dizzily thought their beloved idols were on the skids again.

Keller Scores First Run

Charlie Keller collected a single to start out the inning. Big Bill Dickey fanned, but Joe Gordon collected a snappy single. Phil Rizzuto, the rookie Yankee shortstop, hit hard grounder to Babe Herman, Dodger second-baseman, who nipped off Rizzuto at first but both Keller and Gordon advanced.

With Keller on third and Gordon on second, Spurgeon Chandler rapped out a high bounder down the third-base line which Harry Lavagetto had a difficult time handling. He tossed it to first in an effort to get Chandler for the third out, but Chandler touched the bag ahead of the ball. Keller, meanwhile, had raced home with the first score of the game and Gordon rounded third with a full head of steam. The ball was whipped to the plate, however, and Gordon was cut off for the third out.

Brooklyn's Spirits Sink

The Yankees added another score in the next inning and Brooklyn spirits sank even lower. Tom Henrich started out the rally with a beautiful two-bagger deep into right field. Wyatt walked Joe DiMaggio out of danger, but Charlie Keller, next man up, pounded out a stinging single to right field, scoring Henrich. Dickey, however, was unable to bring the rally to a head.

The Dodgers came smashing back into the game in the fifth inning. Big Dolph Camilli, the slugging home-run artist, drew a free pass to first base and Joe "Ducky" Medwick—a dangerous hitter any time—collected a beautiful double to left field.

Week-End Cricket To See Friendly Games Only

Only three cricket matches have been arranged for this week-end and both are of a friendly nature, the venue in each instance being the S.C.C. ground. Today at 1.30 p.m. two Club sides, captained by W. Marsay and E. Sluis, will meet each other in what promises to be a close and interesting match. Both sides will comprise twelve players and some first-class Club members have been selected, the strength of the two teams being about equal. Runs may be hard to get in large quantities since good bowlers have been chosen for both sides but the game should produce a fine afternoon's cricket.

S.R.C. v. S.C.C.

Tomorrow is an all-day affair commencing at 11 a.m., an S.C.C. XI will engage the Shanghai Race Club in the looked-forward-to annual fixtures. The Race Club have at their disposal a number of excellent performers including Jenkins, Orr, Elliot, Pote-Hunt and Divecha, but whether they will all be available is another matter. The S.C.C. have selected a useful eleven that looks strong from a batting angle but there is a certain amount of doubt as to whether their bowling strength will be good enough to retire their visitors for a reasonable score. Whichever way the game goes an excellent day's cricket should be witnessed.

Cup Entries to Close on Nov. 15

Entries for the various Cup competitions will close on November 15, it was announced by the Shanghai Football Association. It was also announced that clubs might be called on to start their matches at 2 p.m. and that double fixtures would be staged whenever possible.

It is regretted that, through an error, the Cathay Laundry team, a new entry to the Second Division, was omitted from the list.

Levchenko T.K.O.'s Teddy; Lojnikoff K.O.'s Devcich

A splendid evening's boxing was enjoyed by a large and satisfied crowd last night at 699 Wei Hai Wei Road where the Committee for the Relief of the Wounded Soldiers of the Red Army sponsored its first boxing programme in Shanghai with excellent financial results. Coming as it did after so many recent poor fight cards, boxing enthusiasts thoroughly enjoyed themselves, action being the keynote of every bout from start to finish.

In the main event of the evening for the middleweight title of China George Levchenko, of Shanghai, added another belt to his already growing collection by defeating Kid Teddy, from Poland, by a technical knock-out in the third round, the referee stopping the fight during the interval following the finish of the second round when Teddy, his right eye gashed open, was bleeding profusely. The arbiter obviously did the right thing despite the fact that the loser had not suffered severe punishment.

Teddy Half-Blinded by Blood

The first round went to Levchenko though heavy blows were few and far between, the two men sizing each other up. The second round saw the two contestants going at each other hammer and tongs and during one melee the Russian landed a heavy left hook to Teddy's right eye and reopened a cut that was orignally sustained in his last bout. Blood streamed down Teddy's face and body and though he carried on gamely it was manifest that he was half-blinded by the never ceasing flow of gore. Levchenko pounded him from pillar to post until the bell went for the close of the second round, after which Referee Duffy lifted Levchenko's hand in token of victory.

Devcich No Match for Lojnikoff

Paul Lojnikoff experienced very little difficulty in stopping Vargas Devcich in a non-title bout at the lightweight limit. From the start it was soon plain that Devcich was no match for his fitter, faster and craftier opponent. The Yugoslavian kept boring in with his head and attempted to get inside the Russian but with little effect. Lacking a punch and obviously years past his best Devcich could not cope with the barrage of rights and lefts continually shot over by the wily lightweight champion. Four rounds went by with Lojnikoff gaining a large lead on points by virtue of the clever use of his long left hand which opened his rival's defence to enable him to crash in his right time and time again. In the fifth round it was evident that Devcich was tiring rapidly and after a flurry of blows which saw Lojnikoff lashing out with both hands Devcich sank to the canvas and stayed there till ten had been counted by the referee to give Lojnikoff the verdict on a knock-out.

Andre, Lewko Fight Draw

Kid Andre and Sam Lewko fought eight hard rounds to a draw. The "Keed," popular as ever, staged a wonderful comeback and in the fifth and sixth rounds rocked Lewko from head to heels with a series of vicious rights that hurt considerably. The Russian, however, now advancing rapidly in years, was unable to administer the coup de grace, and Lewko made a miraculous recovery in the last two rounds to outfight and outslug Andre and earn an honourable decision.

Detailed Results

George Levchenko defeated by a T.K.O. in the third round
Paul Lojnikoff knocked out Vargas Devcich in the fifth round
Lewko and Andre fought a draw
Ruckenstein defeated Peter Lojnikoff on points
Clara defeated Gourevich on points
Weiss defeated Typhoon Ling on points
Collaco defeated Souza on points
Friedlaender and Ting Ling fought a draw.

Lawn Bowls Leagues to Close Today; Lusitano Reds Win Wallace Cup for First Time

THE decision of the Shanghai Lawn Bowls Association to cancel Monday's league matches was also a virtual announcement of the Clube Lusitano Reds being crowned the champions of the first division. Not that Monday's fixtures would have made much difference—there was next to no chance of the Reds dropping the title—but the cancellation accelerated matters, giving the Lusitanians a mathematical lead which will be impossible to overhaul.

Through their triumph, the Lusitano Reds have now entered the "magic circle" of league winners. Hitherto, this honour has been reserved for only two clubs, the Shanghai Lawn Bowls Club and the Shanghai Recreation Club. It does appear a strange fact that the title has not passed through more hands; but there it is, the S.L.B.C. and the Recs stalwarts have shown such steady form throughout the competition, ever since its inception in 1931, that they have had practically a monopoly on the championship.

Rec's Winning Streak Broken

Lusitano's victory also brings to an end the winning streak of the Shanghai Recreation Club, who have managed to capture the Wallace Cup, the first division trophy, for the past three seasons. But the Recs were not entirely out of the picture this year and there is every possibility that they will earn the runner-up position.

A poor start at the beginning of the season all but put the Recs out of the running for the title. They staged a fine comeback, however, and last week they might have come within striking distance of the title as they were to meet the all-conquering Lusitano Reds in a double fixture. But then came a bitter blow—the rain cancelled both matches, and with them went the last chances of the Recs. Perhaps the Recs might not have won against the formidable Reds, but at least they could say they did try. As it is, a strange twist of fate has seen to it that the victorious Lusitano team and the likely second-place Recs have not met on a single occasion throughout the season.

C. L. Reds Yet Unbeaten

The curtain will be descending on the local lawn bowls league today when the last seven engagements will be played off. With the dangerous Recs out of the way, the Lusitano Reds are one step nearer to achieving their present ambition: a record of no defeats. The Portuguese side will have to win only today's tussle against the Hongkew Golf Club in order to gain this honour. The present situation is that the Reds have dropped only six points out of a possible 40 (eight matches) and have earned a highly creditable average of .850.

Meanwhile, the Hongkew Golf Club junior team is leading the race in the second division, with an average of .725. And if their luck holds out, it looks as if Portuguese teams will be making a clean sweep of league honours this year.

H.G.C. Leading Junior Division

The cancellation of Monday's matches will definitely be of help to the H.G.C. in their title bid. According to the previous schedule, the H.G.C. were to play today and the S.L.B.C., their most dangerous rivals, on Monday. Their relative averages in the standings were such that the H.G.C. had to score at least a 3-2 victory in order to be certain that there would be no upset. But now that the S.L.B.C.'s game has been cancelled, the H.G.C. men need to score only one point in order to maintain their lead and capture the junior title. This they should be able to do as their opponents today will be the lowly Clube Lusitano juniors.

Much attention today will undoubtedly be focussed on the senior match between the Lusitano Reds and the Hongkew Golf Club as this will be the last hurdle which the champions have to clear in order to preserve their perfect record. The H.G.C., remembering their defeat by the Clube Lusitano in the final of the Mercury Cup, will probably try to obtain a little consolation by ousting the Reds today.

A LONG-DISTANCE telephone service between Shanghai and Peiping, and also intermediate cities such as Nanking and Tientsin, will be inaugurated by the end of this month, the "Tairiku Shimpo" reports. Scout Jamboree On October 9, 10

The annual Jamboree of the Boy Scouts Association (Shanghai Branch) and competitions for the Rotary Shield will be taking place at Millington Camp, 230 Hungjao Road, on October 9 and 10.

As in past years there will be a 24-hour Camping Competition between Patrols representing the competing Troops for which 50 per cent. of marks will be given, and a number of competitive events for the other 50 per cent. of marks.

The 24-hour Camp will start at 2 p.m. on Thursday October 9 and the main events will follow, starting at 2.15 p.m. on October 10 (the Chinese National Holiday) with an Inspection of all Troops by Lt. Col. G. H. Mann, M.C.

Competitive Events

Members of the Association, parents and any who are interested are invited to attend the competitive events on the afternoon of October 10. They will this year consist of (1) the Inspection, (2) tent pitching and striking, (3) making a flag staff, (4) and (5) two surprise items of a Scouting nature.

Full particulars will be found in the September issue of "The Totem" magazine (the organ of the Boy Scouts' Association) which will be on sale at Millington Camp.

By kind favour of Mr. Tarby, the Shanghai Amateur Concert Band will play during the afternoon of October 10, and tea will be available under the supervision of the Rovers.

The Rotary Shield will be presented to the winning Troop at the close of the proceedings by Mr. L. M. Pharis, the Vice-President of the Rotary Club of Shanghai.

Portuguese National Day Tomorrow

"October 5", Portugal's National Day, will be observed by local Portuguese this year in quiet ceremonies within their own circles, in view of the difficult times prevailing at present.

Tomorrow, at noon, leading members of the Portuguese community, headed by Mr. J. A. Ribeiro de Melo, Consul-General for Portugal, will call at the Legation of Route Dupleix to pay their respects to Dr. J. de Lebre e Lima, Portuguese Minister to China. Felicitations will also be tendered, as the day coincides with the birthday anniversary of the greatly respected representative of Portugal in this country.

At 1 p.m., at the Clube Lusitano, Mr. Ribeiro de Melo will be host to a luncheon party of about 50 persons. Amongst those who will be present are: Dr. J. de Lebre e Lima, officials of Legation and Consular staffs, executive members of all local Portuguese organizations, members of the legal and medical professions, and others.

Official Reception

In the evening, the Clube Lusitano will hold an official reception between the hours of 6.30 p.m. and 8.00 p.m., and all members of the Portuguese community and friends of Portugal are cordially invited to it. At this function, Dr. J. de Lebre e Lima, Honorary President of the Clube Lusitano, and Madame A. de Lebre e Lima, Honorary President of the Association das Senhoras Portuguesas, sister organization of the Clube, will officiate.

"October 5" commemorates the proclamation of the Portuguese Republic in 1910, but the record of the republican regime during the ensuing 16 years was one that contained but few happy pages. Thanks to its utter incompetency to stabilize the political, social and economic conditions in the country, the Army brought about the National Revolution in 1926 and the advent into power of two men of outstanding ability as statesmen: General, today, President Carmona, and Dr. Salazar. There is no doubt that these are the names that will be heard and honoured, before glasses filled with Portugal's wine are raised in tomorrow's national toasts.

First Church of Christ, Scientist

"Unreality" is the subject of the Lesson Sermon to be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world tomorrow.

Golden Text:—I John 2:16,17. "All that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world. And the world passeth away, and the lust thereof: but he that doeth the will of God abideth for ever."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson Sermon is the following from The Bible—: "Beware of false prophets, which come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves. Ye shall know them by their fruits. Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles? Even so every good tree bringeth forth good fruit; but a corrupt tree bringeth forth evil fruit. A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit. . . .Wherefore by their fruits ye shall know them." (Matt. 7)

The Lesson Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:—

"Everything good or worthy, God made. Whatever is valueless or baneful, He did not make,—hence its unreality. In the Science of Genesis we read that He saw everything which He had made, 'and, behold, it was very good.'" (pg 525)

"It is false to say that Truth and error commingle in creation. In parable and argument, this falsity is exposed by our Master as self-evidently wrong. Disputing these points with the Pharisees and arguing for the Science of creation, Jesus said: 'Do men gather grapes of thorns?'" (pg 539)

S.M.P. Member Feted By Colleagues

Detective Sub-Inspector George F. Darters, attached to the Special Branch of the Shanghai Municipal Police, was feted by his friends and colleagues at the Police Club yesterday afternoon when Assistant Commissioner W. Duncan presented the resigning officer with two ivory carvings, suitably inscribed and set in black-wood stands. Mr. Darters is expected to sail for Canada in the near future. Mrs. Darters and their two children will accompany him.

The departing detective, known to his friends as "Two-Gun" Darters, joined the S.M.P. in June 1926, prior to which he was connected with the Gloucestershire Police. He has been attached to various police stations in Shanghai and was at one time in charge of the Roll Tobacco Squad. His last police assignment was with the Film Censorship Department.
